Depew and Maj. Francis B. Fremont, a son of John C. Fremont, conducted Mr. Seward to his chair.

Chairman Seward introduced Senator Charles W. Fairbanks as "The next Vice-President of the United States," and the candidate received great ovation when he rose to speak. He said:

Fellow citizens: You do well to celebrate the anniversary of the birth of the Republican party within the Empire State, for it has done more for human freedom than any other political agency since the Pilgrims landed upon Plymouth Rock.

All honor to you, venerable gentlemen, who fifty years ago, stood at the cradle of the Republican party. It required resolution of a high order to renounce your old political allegiance and silgn yourselves with the forces which assembled under the banner of Republicanism. You were obliged to encounter hate, prejudice, criticism and epithet. But these did not stay your purpose. You and your immortal compatriots enlisted in a holy cause. You sought the North Star of human liberty, and turned neither to the right nor to the left. Opposition did not dissuade you. It but drove deeper into your hearts the roots, of your exaited purpose.

The Republican party did not organize for spoils. It assembled about an altar of sacrifice and in a sanctuary beset by enemies.

In good time, in God's province, victory was given to your cause. It was not achieved until after our institutions were put to the supreme test. With the best blood of the republic, the crime which summoned you to your exaited service was washed away.

The achievements of the Republican learly constitute the ment learners.

The achievements of the Republican party constitute the most luminous pages in American history. They have no parallel in all of the ample annals

The Republican party has not been the perveless party of expediency. It has stood for the right, and challenges all comers. It has met every emergency which has arisen upon the high level of duty and honor. Above mere party triumph it has put the welfare of the people. To paraphrase the historic utterance of our first great leader, the Republican party has been a party "of the people, by the people and for the people. It has possessed in an eminent degree the initiative faculty. It has been progressive. It has met the advancing needs of our expanding councry, and our national development, under the inspiration of its policies, challenges the admiration and the wonder of the world. It has had convictions, and it has had the moral courage to proclaim them. It has regarded its platforms as solemn covenants with the people, and has been antisfied only when it has written their principles into the laws of the land and carried them into the administration of public affairs.

vancement of peace, for the preservation of a spirit of good neighborhood among the nations of the earth. We seek the world's markets. We must first win and hold the world's respect. Our increased influence in international affairs does not grow out of any alliance with other powers. We need no allies except those of truth and justice. The warning of the fathers of the republic ag-linst forming entangling alliances with other powers is as sound today as ever, and it must continue one of the great controlling principles in our international affairs. WORLD-WIDE INTERESTS.

The interests of our people are world-wide. The facilities for communication with every quarter of the globe are such that American citizens are in constant touch with all countries. They are pushing their peaceful conquests of trade everywhere, so that isolation is no longer possible. We are, by a sort of irresistible law of commercial and social gravitation, forced to play a more important part in the affairs of the world than ever before. We shall, however, refrain from intermeddling in these matters which are of no concern to our country or our people. We have let if be understood that American citihowever, retrain from intermediating in these matters which are of no concern to our country or our people. We have let it be understood that American citizenship abroad means something. We have let it be known that whether native-born or naturalized American citizens will be protected in their just rights to the uttermost parts of the earth. American citizens must observe the laws of other countries, and other countries must respect the rights of American citizens.

The Republican party not only gave freedom to the oppressed in our own country, but it has given liberty to millions in the distant islands of the seas. It has been inspired by no thought of territorial aggrandizement; by no dream of empire. It has been inspired by the spirit of Christian civilization and by the dictates of exalted national duty. It will meet the supreme responsibility in a manner to strengthen ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 14, mid-night.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Gen. Kouropatkin's official report, which was given out tonight, comes as a con-siderable relief, as setting at rest alarming stories of the loss of guns, cutting off of divisions and the death or capture of prominent commanders, which have been freely circulating ditions of the country and the deter-mined pressure of the Japanese ar-mies does much to restore Gen. Kou-ropatkin's prestige in military cir-

The report dwells on the terrible The report dwells on the terrible difficulties encountered during the retreat from positions on the southern front, when twenty-four horses and a whole company of infantry harnessed to a single gun were not able to remove the gun from a quagmire. It is shown that the retirement from Liao Yang to the north bank of the Taitse River was carried out in good order and with celerity under cover of night, August 31, when it had become evident that Gen. Kuroki was making a determined drive at the Russian communications north of Liao Yang.

each other in swift succession. Through it all, the Republican party has been conservative, courageous and patriotic. No emergency has found it imprepared. It is an inspiration to the young men of the country. It is the party of hope and opportunity. There is nothing done by it which we could wish were undone. There is nothing over which we ask to be thrown the mantle of charity. A party which has risen to the full level of duty in the past may be trusted in the future. We may well put our confidence in the bridge which has carried us over.

The Republican party is no experiment. It is not composed of inharmonious elements, It is a well-disciplined and thoroughly-tried political agency. It has been the railying center for the moral forces of the republic for half a century. Its ideals were never loftler than they are triday. It has not lost its fine fiber by the lapse of time. Republicanism of today is the Republicanism of halt a century ago.

ITS MIGHTY TROPHIES.

Where are the trophies of the Republicanism of the party. There were the country control of the party. Russian communications north of Liao Yang.

Gen. Kouropatkin pays tribute—to the courage and devotion of every arm of the service under his command, especially to the bravery of the troops to whom was set the task of recapture ing the Sykwantun hills, on the north bank of the Taitse River.

The engagement of the night of September 2 was productive of some of the most severe fighting of the whole battle. It was practically a commands becoming separated in the darkness and independent units acting on their own initiative with the one object of carrying out the commander's orders to retake the heights.

The necessity of retaking the Sykwantun heights formed the first break in Gen. Kouropatkin's plan and lost him a whole day. September 2, and thus delayed launching a blow against Kuroki; and when the Russians had just regained a foothold on the coveted position, Orloff's failting to the report, as given out, does not state the casualties, but the Associated Press is authoritatively informed that they were under 17,000.

Thanks to the sufficient number of bridges and the manner in which the roads led out, all troops destined to take the offensive were safely on the right bark of the river on the morning of September 1. "Flaving crossed to the right bank of the river, the army had taken up a position between the village of Sykwantun and the heights near the Yentai mines which it was intended to occupy with all our detachments, composed of thirteen battailons. Taking the position near Sykwantun as a pivot, it was intended that the army effect a movement to flank the Japanese position, which extended from the Taitse River near the village of Sykwantun toward the Yentai collieries. At first our attack did not succeed, but the fighting was continued with unabeted vigor even after darkness had set in We repeatedly gained possession of the heights, but were finally compelled to withdraw temporarily. Many of our detachments became mixed up, and in the disorder unity of command was rendered very difficult. Leaders of individual detachments, however, continued the attacks time after time, and at last succeeded in occupying the desired position, thereby attaining the object of the operations on our right flank.

Springer, in nominating Whitford, took occasion, to derouge certain Paramillare. to denounce certain Republicans who voted against him for Mayor last May, and who, he said, were not sit-ting in the convention.

"The leading name on your elec-toral ticket," he said, "is a man who found it necessary to issue a state-ment to the public press in the last municipal campaign advocating the election of the Democratic candidates —the man through whose efforts the defeat of the Republican candidates was encompassed."

The wildest confusion followed this statement, but Springer continued, saying notwithstanding this he would support the ticket and vote for Moffatt.

thing, and Senator Platt expressed himself as equally determined, and at an early hour retired for the night. Today's session was without significance, so far as the Higgins-Woodruff controversy is concerned, involving only the preliminary organization of the convention. There was no test of the strength of the two sides. The conference which resulted in the completion of the Higgins ticket was attended by about twenty-five men, but none of the Woodruff or Platt men were present. The selection of M. Linn Bruce was something of a surprise, after the naming of Julius M. Mayer last evening for Attorney-General. as it gives New York county two places off the State ticket.

CONVENTION'S SESSION.

CONVENTION'S SESSION. SARATOGA (N. Y.) Sept. 14.—The apparently tangled political situation here yesterday had resolved itself, by the time the Republican State Convention met today, into a plain contest between Gov. Odell and Senator Platt, which the former and his friends until the last moment were trying to keep from taking open form on the floor of the convention. There is no antagonism between Gov. Odell and Woodruff and none between Woodruff and Lieut.-Gov. Higgins. It was made plain today that Woodruff was not averse to an amicable settlement of the conflict between his own and the Higgins interests. It was the uncompromising attifude of Senator Platt in behalf of Woodruff and against Gov. Odell and the Higgins provement that prevented the proposed conference yesterday afternoon and precluded the possibility of Woodruff's homorable withdrawal from the contest on a compromise which might have resulted in the selection of a third man for the Governorship nomination.

He then reviewed the growth of the Republican party for the last fifty years, and concluded his speech with a glowing eulogy of the President. The mention of the President's name aroused the delegates to a great pitch of enthusiasm.

SARATOGA, Sept. 14 .- At the cor clusion of the speech, a delegate from Kings county introduced, in behalf of the delegation from that county, a resolution calling for an individual roll call on the nomination for Governor. Committee on Resolutions. The convention then took a recess until 11. o'clock.

When Gov. Odell was informed of the action of the Kings county delegation, he said he had no objection to an individual ballot, as it would make no difference in the result. The position of former Lieut-Gov. Woodruff as a candidate for Governor was the most interesting feature of the day. Woodruff's friends early in the day asserted that Kings county would not present a man for Lieutenant-Governor, and would not take any place on the ticket other than that of Governor. Woodruff aimself said tonight. "It had been asserted from the outset that there would be an 'open convention,' but it ceased to be such as soon as Gov. Odell declared for Higgins. The State leaders brought pressure to bear on their individual delegates, as they desired to follow the lead of the Governor and cheirman of the State Committee. He adds:

"Like many other ships, her bollers required frequent renewals. The question arises as to whether international law allows repairs only or renewals. If repairs, she must remain at San Francisco, as it would puzzle the keenest American intellect to repair Belleville boller tubes. If renewals, the Scotch-bollered belligerent may claim that any neutral vessel may retube his bollers when and where convenient, throwing in a couple of new crank shafts, a few new cylinders, new propellers and other desirable items."

"I feel that the conclave has been a thing of inestimable value to Los Angeles, benefitting Southern California even more than San Francisco, and the northern part of the State. Here the Knights from all parts of the country seemed to feel perfectly at home, and were delighted with the climate, the people, and the land in general.

"I know of many who are coming back here to live. The Bloomington "job" yielded the burgiars only $10.94 in stamps, but it resulted in the exposure of at least one man who is believed by the offi-cers to be a dangerous crook, whose incarceration is a timely safeguard to the community at large. evidently an old hand at law-breaking.

He undertook to play the part of martyr and plead guilty to the stamp stealing in an attempt to shield his pal, Lenox, claiming that his partner in the crime was a person called "Blackey," a person thus far mythical to the officers. After pleading guilty Lynch asked for a stay of sentence, so that he could testify at the trial of Lenox, whom he wished to clear of the charge. United States District Attorney McKeeby, however, disproved the story told by Lynch on the witness stand, and Lenox was unable to prove an alibi. Both Lynch and Lenox had just finished serving terms in the San Bernardino jall for disturbing the peace when apprehended on the Bloomington charge, and were starting out to beat their way East.

seen Friday morning, is in Goldfield.
Nev., according to a report received at police headquarters yesterday.
Waiter Scott, a mining man from Goldfield, telephoned the police yesterday that he had just received a letter from his partner, a man named Wilson, in Goldfield, stating that he (Wilson) had met and talked to Ayars, who acknowledged his identity. According to Scott, Wilson said the man stated without questioning that he was a clerk at the Broadway Van Nuys and he went on to ask many questions about mining in Goldfield. Scott hastened to catch a train back to Nevada after his information had been imparted to the police.
Mrs. Ayars is still at the Elik Hotel, No. 1021 South Grand avenue. The strain on her nerves caused by her husband's disappearance has been so great that she has nearly collapsed. She was unable to talk when called by telephone last night, but a young man who said he is a cousin of Mrs. Ayars answered. Asked about the Goldfield report, he said he had talked with Scott, who he "didn't know from a hole in the ground," but that Scott said Wilson had written that he only saw a man that "looked like Ayars." In order to add deep mystery to the case or for some reasor possibly too stupendous to understand, the "oousin" refused to give his name, simply saying, when questioned: "They didn't name me,"
At the hotel, Manager Fryman stated he had heard absolutely northing from the missing clerk. He is entirely at sea for a feason why Ayars should deliberately desert a bride of eight months and a sood position at the hotel.

The latest is a whicky flask that looks exactly like a small testament. It is for use in temperance Southern California towns.

If you live in a temperance town, you have to "square" yourself when you get a coal-oil box, since The Timbs published the story of the manner in which the breweries pack beer for "blind pigs."

Yesterday some coal-oil boxes arrived in Glendale labeled for private parties. Suspicions being raised by The Times publication, the lids were cautiously pried off. Beer. The boxes were full of-it.

"SPOOK DOCTOR," SÁY THE SPIRITUALISTS.

Claim Antis' Sixth-ward Candidate Was Exposed Here Ten Years Ago and Fled-"Little Willie" the Spirit His Undoing.

Y ESTERDAY members of the Christian Spiritualist Society exposed the former record of Dr. Houghton, showing him as a spiritualist medium who was exposed here in the winter of 1894. Houghton is now trying to break into the City Council from the Sixth Ward.

A. M. Buck, a prominent member of the Christian Spiritualist Society, has been on Houghton's trail ever since his picture appeared in the local evening papers. Mr. Buck has made a reputation for himself in Los Angeles by exposing fake mediums—and his latest with the same and the spiritualist society.

Then they ieft and went East. We had one or two letters from them from there that he was still a medium or was aping one.

"Soon after they come back here from Chicago, they came to see us out at the ranch. Then I learned from them that they were married.

"I was glad to hear that Houghton was nominated for the Council as I thought it might be a chance for us to get some of that $150 back." Mrs. Roge, or more properly, Mrs.

his picture appeared in the local even-ing papers. Mr. Buck has made a rep-utation for himself in Los Angeles by exposing fake mediums—and his latest exposé is the most interesting of them all. Mr. Buck has evidence unearthed to show that Dr. Houghton was ex-posed while holding a seance in Los Angeles on the night of November 5, 1894, and that a few days later Houghton left town.

A part of this evidence consists of a statement from Frank Allen who loaned Houghton money to bring him here in 1894, who roomed with Houghton at the time the latter was exposed and who still holds Houghton's note for $150$, dated ten years ago, and on which not a dollar has been paid, Allen has repeated this statement to The Times, and so has Mrs. Frank Allen, at whose home the fake seances were held.

am afraid you have been talking too much."

"Now don't you blame it on me" she rejoined. "This Times reporter had the whole story when he came here this afternoon. I talked with Mr. Buck this morning. Mr. McCune was with him. I didn't know then that it was all going into the paper."

"Well, it is just like this" said Mr. Allen, "I want to be a friend to Allen, "I want to be a friend to Houghton. I would do him a good turn if I could, but you have got the story and there is no denying it. I was present at the seance when the exposé was attempted but I took no part in the meeting. They did not find out as much as they thought they would.

"I guess Houghton is as honest as a majority of the men who got elected to office. The trouble with him always has been that Re would not stick at anything long enough to accomplish much. He made a mistake to come back here after that 1894 business; he should have gone to some other city where he had not had trouble. I was sorry to see him take up that medium what someone might say in The Times sorry to see him take up that medium what someone might say in The Times sorry to see him take up that medium when there was an exposé and no end of the was an exposé and no end of the was paper talk. I am surprised that he should have the effrontery to come out for a political office after that. He gave seances at the house and that there was an exposé and no end of the was paper talk. I am surprised that should have the effrontery to come out for a political office after that. pointing to a middle-aged woman sitting on the opposite side of the hall.

"Who was this 'Mrs. Rose,' doctor," softly asked the reporter, turning from his look at the woman across the hall and gazing into the doctor's brown eyes.

This part of the conversation took place at one of the back entrances of the hall, where the reporter and the doctor candidate were standing looking in, and not even the ranting of El Hutch, who at that moment of a speech he was making was asking the sixty-six people present why they read The Times, could get the doctor's mind off this very interesting kubject.

"That was the former name of my wife," answered the doctor, in subdued tones.

The conversation at this point halted painfully, as if from a stubbed toe. The reporter didn't know whether to feel glad or sorry, and to keep from breathing hard and showing either guik or innocence, gazed openmouthed at a rnoth miller, Jizzily skimming up the white walls. The doctor was pensive with recollections of the past and stood looking down at the floor with his chin in his hand, thinking, thinking.

When the moth miller had skinned up the wall the reporter looked around to see Dr. Houghton ambiling away with bent head for a backroom conference with Man Friday Norton, who at once began to, scribble something on a paper.

He was plainly ill at ease during this unsatisfactory interview, but brightened up a little when he joilled himself with the statement that he "would beat Davenport three to one, notwithstanding what may come out in The Times tomorrow morning."

She looked down in confusion.

"Will you take an oath that you have negro blood?" asked the old justice, very slowly.

The young man's lips were drawn to a thin, white, bloodless line, but he answered instantly: "Yes, sir, gladly." Absolute silence reigned in the courtrom except for the slow, solemn words of the justice walle the oath was read. The others in the courtroom looked on in slient wonder.

Then that strange wedding took place in the courtroom.

The narrative of the expose of 1894 was soon found, but there difficulty was experienced in connecting it with the Sixth Ward candidate for the reason that the papers at that time mispelled Houghton's name—they spelled it "Howton."

Most valuable at this juncture was W. H. McCune, long a resident of Los Angeles, who had met Houghton when he was here in 1894. Houghton, then called "Professor," was very well known to the members of Mr. McCune's family at that time.

He refered the investigators to Frank Allen, a stepson of Mr. McCune's by marriage, who is now living here on the southern extension of the Maple-avenue car line.

Mr. Allen knew Houghton well; he had reason, for he holds Houghton's not for 150—money advanced to bring Houghton to Los Angeles and in keeping him after he came here. HOUGHTON TEN YEARS AGO.
And their own way proved to be exceedingly interesting.

"I knew Houghton when he was here ten years ago," said Mrs. Frank Allen yesterday afternoon. "At that time we occupied rooms with Mrs. Rose, whom I believe is now Houghton's wife at 707% South Broadway. Houghton at that time held seances and claimed to be a medium. There was a remarkable lack of pian or order in the system. Presumebly it answered the needs of those times and conditions, but to think that any part of the system is being used today is abhorrent to all who have the slightest regard for the sanitary condition of the city.

Yesterday Dr. Powers condenned the state of affairs in strong terms. "Those old zanjas," said he "ought to be torn out and the excavations refilled with fresh earth. The work was never properly done. The old sewers were simply covered as they stood and thus left so that they can still be used. They have caused much annoyance in various streets of the old business center."

A protest against the contemplated opening and widening of Fourth street from Alameda street to Boyle avenue was also received. The communication is signed by C. Storm Sewer Completed.

The City Engineer reports that the storm sewer between Westmoreland boulevard and Eighth street west of Hoover street has been completed. This is not a part of the regular storm sewer system, for the construction of which bonds were voted, although it will connect with it. It is a project proposed by the residents of the district to provide for the carrying off of surplus water during the rainy season. The City Council, however, indersed the scheme, and agreed to pay one-half of the cost of building the sewer. This agreement passed the Council July 13. The City Engineer has certified to a demand in favor of the contractors for $4835.80, the city's share of the expense.

Although he had other interests it was in the lumber business that he made his money, and established his standing. He was also prominent in the politics of his State, and was on terms of intimacy with men now high in affairs at Washington. A life-long Republican, he was recognized as a forceful speaker, and stumped his State for Precident McKinley.

But reverses came. The standing of Mr. Stevens was such that on one occasion he took up paper that he had endorsed for a friend for $80,000, and he suffered neither in feeling nor in business. The friend had suddenly died, and that is all there was to it. But that was merey a precursor to other setbacks, and then Mr. Stevens had an illness that finally compelled him to heed his physicians and come to Southern California. Here he falled twice in business and after having undergone two operations he was considerably broken in health. A short time ago he started for Chicago, where he was going in answer to the request of the Republican State Central Committee. In a befogged condition he left the train at San Bernardino and then was brought back to this city. These facts came out yesterday when Mr. Stevens was examined before Judge Trask and a commission in lunacy. He is a tall, white haired, and stalwart built man, and the general paresis that has scized upon him is supposed to have been induced by business pressure in the first instance. Melanchodia followed when reverses swept away his fortune, and cell degeneration was the result. For thirty years he has been an abstainer until about a month ago, and save in his application to business he has a always been a very temperate man.

His concession included the right to erect structures and conduct business for thirty years from May. 1901. Eddy assigned his rights and privileges to the Los Angeles Incline Railway Company, and the company leased to Jones for ten years the right to occupy and make certain extensions of the premises forming the "Angels" Rest." Jones avers that he expended more than $1900.

But now Jones, in bitterness of spirit, malhrains that a company has been organized to build a hotel close to the "Angels" Rest, and, as it will come in conflict with the business being carried on by the plaintiff, Cot. Eddy and his associates in the hotel enterprise are trying to freeze him out. He asks that the city be enjoined from doing anything of the kind.

Promptly at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon twenty-five men dressed in their football togs trotted out onto the Occidental campus, and the first regular practice for the season was begun for the Presbyterians.

Big Ed Merrill, the good-natured Beloit coach, was there to whip the men into line, and while little real work was done, the first hour's practice served to show that the team that will represent Occidental College this year will be one of the fastest ever turned out there.

The gridiron is well adapted to fast work, and the two pick-up elevens work, and the two pick-up elevens that faced each other greatly pleased the new coach with their creditable showing. Little can be said outside of the fact that the team will be light, and will have to depend on its ability to develop triek plays, and end runs when opposing such teams as 8t. Vincent and U.S.C. will eventually put out.

At U.S.C.'s new campus, at Occidental College and on Fiesta Park good-sized squads of little fellows pranced about with here and there-very occasionally, indeed—a 6-foot 200-pound treasure spotted by the coaches and tabbed for future reference. In some cases the turnouts were not up to expectations in numbers, and almost to a man the coaches were disappointed in the size of their recruits.
